Secretary Tracy, Marshal Ransdeli and Mr. C. R. Bishop, of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, were driven to the Denison house, which they made their headquarters during the day. Private Secretary Halford was the guest of W. H. Smith. Secretary Tracy, accompanied by Marshal Ransdeli, called at the McKee residence during the morning, and after a short time: pent in conversation, the president, the secretary and the marshal proceeded to the First Presbyterian church, where they listened to a discourse by the pastor, Rev. M. L. Haines. The president after the services took luncheon at the Denison with Secretary Tracy. He remained at the hotel about three hours during which time many people called to pay their respects. There was no formal reception and the visitors were greeted much in the same manner they would have been had they been calling npon Gen. Harrison in his law office.

Later in the afternoon the president and Secretary Tracy were driven about the city, and subsequently the former took tea at the McKee residence, where he spent the evening receiving calls of old friends and neighbors. At 10:30 the president and his party returned to their special car, in which they spent the night, departing for the east via the Big Four railroad at 6 a. m.

Brief stops will be made at a number of places in Indiana and Ohio. During the day the president frequently asked for news of the condition of Justice Miller, and expressed the deepest solicitude as to the probable result of his illness.

IRON TRUSS FALLS.

Six Men Injured, Two of Them Onlie Seriously.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Six men were injured, two of them quite seriously, at the works of the Illinois Steel company, at 1 o'clock yesterday. A number of the men were taising a huge iron truss when the guy pole snapped in two and the truss tell to the ground with a crash. Most of the men saved themselves by jumping, but six were struck by the heavy piece. One of the injured may die, as it is feared he has suffered internal injuries. ternal injuries.

INTO A RIVER.

Five Persons Drowned By the Capsizing of a Boat. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—A special to The Ledger from Kinkora, N. J., says: Five persons were drowned in the river near the slnice and the Knickerbocker ice honses at this place yesterday by the capsizing of a boat. The names of those drowned are: solomon Fletcher, aged 32; John Fletcher, nged 22; Angelo Fletcher, aged 24, brothers; Cheafus Merry, aged 43; and Aionzo Cannon, aged 22.

Ail five lived here and were employed.

Ail five lived here and were employed at Murreil Dobbins' brick yard. The men were bringing twenty-three large pilings, each about fourteen feet long, from Silver Lake ice house in an open boat with a single sail. In attempting to make land between the ice house and the bowsprit of the boat struck one of the dogs of the former. The shock and the swift current of the water's sluice cansed the boat to careen and the heavy pilings to shift to one side, overturning the craft. The men sank at once and the attempts to save their lives by on-lookers were unavailing. The bodies of Angelo Fietcher and Cheafus Merry were recovered.

"Lives of great men all remind us" We should buy our shoes in time, And day by day should find us At Barkley's, the place to buy 'em. -Totherfellow.

Ever since our Government has had political existence, the question of tariff has agitated the minds of the people with a tenacity which has seemed to threatens to be perpetual.

We have seen other governments arise, and then crumble and fall beneath the unrelenting hand of adverse fate; we have seen victors' wreaths and monarchs' gems buried in one common dust; we have seen great wars occur, when, meeting in battle array, the serried hosts with the deadly engines of modern warfare, have drenched lands in human gore; dignified Senators, learned in the deep mysteries of statecraft, have met in the arena of discussion upon this interminable theme, and like noble Romans waged worded war, until the very earth seemed to tremble beneath the fury of the fray of these giants of battle until the Protectionist clutched in exhaustion for support, and the Free-trader reeled breathlessly away.

Amid these conflicts of time and changes of fortune, the question of tariff has kept aloft its stolid form like a column of adamant, as if in defiance of the wisdom of man.

At last, however, it has been given to us to find and offer a solution of this question that has so long defied the genius of statesmen.

We have settled the question!

We have stripped the tariff from Boots and Shoes! At our mammoth SPOT CASH SHOE STORE is beyond cavil or doubt the most immense stock in the State, and our prices are so low that all must admit that the tariff has gone glimmering from them, as our prices are merely nominal.

Give His Name.

"Can't you fellows help us defeat that Congress up in our district?"

This language appeared in the Maysville Republican last Saturday in refer- earnest. Organize clubs in every voting ence to the Democratic nominee for Congress. The Republican says it was uttered by a distinguished Mason County Democrat and office-holder.

The Republican is mistaken. No Democrat ever used such languaga as the above in reference to Tom Paynter. No unbroken Democratic representation. Democrat would utter such language. Some individual who may be posing as a Democrat may have attered the words.

If any man placed in office by Democrotic votes has been talking this way he should be asked to step down and out. Mason County Democrats have no use for such a traitor and renegade, and will take pleasure in retiring him, no matter who he is.

Will the Republican please give his name?

RAMBLER.

He Has Something More to Say of Mr. D. A. Richardson Peacefully Maysville and Maysville People.

"Rambier" has been absent some time, on a trip through the busy, bustilug, boundless West, but he is back in Maysville once more. I notice that in previous articles mistakes were luadvertently made. Mr. Newton Cooper's building on Front street was reported five stories high when it is six, and the depth is 145 feet, when It was reported 140. The CDX row of huildings along Market streets con sists of nine dwellings instead of six.

East of Market street deserves mention, but to his home. I can not write fast eurngh to keep shead of the west. You can't help observing that Cuiiey is trying to curl np over Harry Taylor and Red Robinson in the way of fancy attractions, while right next door to him, D. Hnnt & Son have quietly built an addition to the rear of their store-room of twenty-five feel, three stories high, turnishing ventilation and light so much needed to the sprightly book-keeper, polite lady cierks and admiring customers. The ceiling is new and made of solid ash, while the front has been modernized, plain single grass put in place of the old 8x10, and when the cost of paint is put on as Mr. Hunt | county Mr. Richardson resided on a farm says "tha three beantles lying along side of their neighbor will not be asham-d of their company." it is a pleasure to note these lmprovements, for it you travel all over the country you will not flud such an advance- cantile business in the house on Market ment anywhere else lu towns of the size of street now occupied by Rogers' whole Maysville.

As I passed down Second to Wall to get a stimplant of soda and Blue Lick in a legiti mate way, the house of P. B. McClanahan corner of Third and Market, where he attracted attention, and it was the new modern windows in front that caused the altention. On entering, I find Mr. McClananan has stolen a march in the way of improvement by adding a substantial brick extension, two stories high, to the rear of his grocery and FIRE, tornado and marine insurance, dwelling, which now gives him pleuty of room and is an improvement worthy of commendation. up all over the city and which deserve mention, but it is too tedious to particularize. They are great improvements on the old brick supported the superstructure of the hulldings. and amassed a fortune. I notice right here where I stand a fair samfie of same, the two buildings where Simon Nelson, a late arrival in the way of business, aud Andy Honan, his neighbor, a not very late arrival, have new handsome fronts and son of New York, by his first marriage handsome stores, too. Both houses belong to and a daughter, Mrs. Thomas A. Keith Mr. Nelson, and are models of beauty both as to exterior and inside in tasty arrangement I must not forget to notice that Jack Wadsworth, although he is in the revenue department, strives still to be a man of advancement. He has put down one of his improved hexagonal concrete block pavements in front of Robinson's cigar palace. This pavement is a beauty. The cement pavement laid ailjoining this one in front of Harry Taylor's and T. J. Curley's are good representations ot substantiability and were put down by Mr. Curley himself, which goes far towards lusuring their durability.

I cannot finish this rambling communication without reference to E. L. Martin, who went several years ago to Kansas City from Maysville, a poor but honest man. The writer had occasion to call at his husiness stand stances are reported where it has been and found his house, lately built by himself, rendered almost worthless. to be 150 feet deep by 60 wide and six stories high. It reminded me of Mr. Cooper's building on our Front street. Mr. Martin, although having husiness on hands with par ties who were walting to take their turn to see him in regniar order, and who transacts more business in an honr than a dozen so called business chaps who think husiness amounts to flourish cando in a day, is a quiet, mild man, with no ostentation or alm at tremendous appearances whatever. But he accomplishes a great deal.

I was admitted to his presence simply on As soon as I entered he arose and on my addressing him, aithough himself deeply interested in examining some papers before him charged everybody who was waiting to see him, saying to them: "Here is a Maysville friend. I must see him, I will be here at 3 o'clock." He invited me to followhim. Quietly, through his great business house which, from basement to roof, is full of free whisky. This part of the business he pays no attention to leaving it to his partner, Mr. Perin, and his son-in-law. Passing out of the house, atter a sample of ten-year-old McBrayer had been dispensed with, he said that this whole time was now occupied in business outside of the whisky department, viz: With real estate, railroads and manufactories. As we proceeded on our way to a new depot he was building, he said that a fire had occurred the FRANK OWENS HARDWARE COMPANY night before cansing him a loss of $15,000 the money loss, but I feel for the operatives. Arriving at his new depot grounds he simply gave instructions to his foreman to have an estimate made that evening of the cost of rebuilding the factory, and have same done at once. Mr. Martin is a decided improvement on some husiness style we have in Maysville. The business he is engaged in amounts to millions per year, his whisky sales alone amounting to from $60,000 to $80,000 per month. Yet he manages to be an easy, quiet gentleman of few words, pleasant at all times MRS. S. J. DAUGHERTY desires through and very effective in the execution of busi-RAMBLER.

THE "TABLE D'HOTER."

and His Ways Are a Distinct Product of New York Civilization.

A new bit of New Yorkese disject is table d'hoter, applied to a man who regularly William G. Beatty, a son of Gen. Join and fearlessly eats public dinners served in courses. The name is a purely New York one, for no other city in the Union serves table d'hote dinners in the same way that this town does. Chicago never had an evening table d'hote dinner until two or three years ago. The people in that town take their dinner early in the afternoon, between 12 and 2 o'clock, in the good of Russellville, Ky., died of paralysis in old fashioned way that holds good through out the west.

So with the other western cities, St. Louis, Cincinnati and all the rest cienr out to San Francisco, where the American traveler again strikes the evening course dinner in that cosmopolitan town. Boston and Philadelphia have a very few table d'hote restaurants of that kind, but Brookiyn, with all its 800,000 eaters, hasn't a single one to its name.

New York, on the other hand, is honeycombed with them. it requires a cosmopolitan and boarding house hating people to make table d'hote restaurants successfui. It requires a vast army of people with demi-Bohemian instincts, who roam about from one enting house to another, William West, the colored man on trial seeking in this way a freedom and variety at Washington, Pa., for the murder of the they could find in no other way. Here one finds every variety of cooking, from the Chinese of Mott street through the Swiss of Fulton street and the Spanish of Maiden lane up to the French of Bleecker street and the Italian and Hungarian of upper New York, of Broadway and Union

Republicans of Virginia wiil place con-gressional candidates in the First, Second o'clock at night as far down town as Fuiton street, and as far up town as One Hundred and Twenty-fifth. You can pay almost any price from thirty cents up to $1.50, but the average is seventy-five cents without wine or $1 with a pint of elaret. No table d'hote place can live that does not average at least sixty customers per night. So one can see at a glance the great number of diners they serve,

But everybody who eats a table d'hote dinner isn't a table d'hoter by a great deai. A man doesn't become a table d'hoter at once; he grows into it. He begins by nibbling at the bait, takes a dinner now and then, and little by little the now and then merges into every night until, before he knows it, he biossoms out into a confirmed table d'hoter. Then the waiters ail know him as their prey and treat him accord-

There are certain signs about the table d'inter that mark him out to the most casual observer. He comes in with an air particular corner for him. He calls the The governor of Virginia refused to white aproned servitor Aiphonse and asks confidentially which of the two soups is the better. He gets an extra supply of salad, not out of the mass which is aiready dressed, but a fresh variety which he dresses himself. He is very ioyal to his restaurant, and ropes in young men who are yet new in the ways and wiles of table d'hotism. He teils them it ls "the best

"Gath" on Marriage.

Matrimony with the Englishman is not the solemu, settling thing it is with Amerlcau men. They regard living, having a home and bringing up a family as something due to man, whereas we regard almost everything as due to the woman. There is Henry Ciews in New York, who failed about the time of the panic of 1873, but who has made another fortune. He met a fine young girl who appeared in Washington society as the niece of the Belknaps.

They have several children, and the woman likes the man because he Is success-A vigorous defense is to be made by ful, and the man is attached to his wife because she is beautiful and fruitful. In fact, marriage in public station differs but collision for which he is held responsible. abreast of their condition. A very intelli-The estate of A. D.
